Bluegrass at the Broadway

A Sneak Peak into the 36th Annual Delaware Valley Bluegrass Festival

CAMDEN, NJ – Bluegrass fans will get an opportunity to start their bluegrass festivities early this year. Bluegrass at the Broadway will give fans a special, pre-festival sampling of two of the bands scheduled to perform at the 36th Annual Delaware Valley Bluegrass Festival. This event will be held at the Broadway Theater in Pitman, Thursday, August 30, 2007 at 7pm. Dan Paisley & The Southern Grass along with local South Jersey favorites, the Tuesday Mountain Boys are sure to wet appetites with their edgy vocals, driving instruments, and original and classic bluegrass tunes.

Known around the world for their musicianship and dedication to the traditional style, Dan Paisley & the Southern Grass will woo the audience with their unwavering sense of timing, relaxed, joviality on stage, and dynamic repertoire. From moving ballads to fiery shindigs, Paisley's music encompasses the entire spectrum within the definitive bluegrass tradition.

The Tuesday Mountain Boys have been playing pure bluegrass music in and around the Delaware Valley for nearly 20 years. Although their repertoire includes several new and original vocal and instrumental compositions, they strive to produce the strictly acoustic bluegrass music that the genre's original pioneers envisioned more than 50 years ago. This band is sure to leave the crowd awestruck with its traditional style demonstrated through close harmony vocal arrangements.

Bluegrass at the Broadway is a great opportunity to take a sneak peak into the Bluegrass Festival while enjoying a night of great music. All proceeds from the evening will benefit The Sanctuary at Center For Family Services, a place of refuge and respite for victims of trauma. Tickets are $20 each and can be purchased online at www.thebroadwaytheatre.org. There is a $10 discount for festival attendees and BFOTM members. This event is sponsored by Rastelli Foods, Holman, and Slack, Inc.

The 36th Annual Delaware Valley Bluegrass Festival will be held at the Salem County Fair Grounds, Woodstown on Labor Day Weekend August 31 - September 2, 2007.
